bench warrant for Seely's arrest was issued on the indictment.

This report was received with some incredulity in the District Attorney's office.

The Chicago police, however, have been communicated with, and if the man arrested there is really the missing bookkeeper, officers will be sent to Chicago with requisition papers to bring him back.

The man arrested in Chicago described himself as Frank J. Dale.

A remarkable resemblance to the fugitive bookkeeper, and the Chicago police believe he is Seely.

He was arrested in a Chicago boarding-house upon information furnished by Henry E. McFarland, who is probably an amateur detective.

McFarland met Seely in a Chicago saloon, and says he frequented the place with "Dale" or Seely.

Farland declares Dale confessed he was Seely, and inspired by the hope of securing the $500 reward offered for the apprehension of the fugitive, McFarland informed the police.

The suspect took his arrest coolly. He denied that he was Seely, but refused to give any information about himself.

Farland says Dale, or Seely, had plenty of money, and spent it freely. He also said that Dale told him a lawyer in New York was sending him money.

Angel denied to-day that he had sent Seely any money.

The only thing found on the person of the man under arrest that lends any color to the theory that he is Seely, is a Pullman car ticket dated the day he disappeared. The ticket was from New York to Chicago, probably Washington or Wheeling.

At the late Lawyer Baker's office, when spoken to about the arrest, said that he did not believe the man to be the missing bookkeeper, and ridiculed the story told by the man McFarland to the Chicago police.

SUGAR SURPLUS WIPED OUT.

Price Reduction Enables Trust to Make Big Sales.

To-day was an exciting one in the sugar trade. An enormous business was transacted in refined sugar, and practically all of the surplus stock held by the Trust was wiped out.

For several days orders have been coming in from all parts of the country for granulated sugar, which is the standard grade, to be placed if the price went down to 4 cents, long price. There are regular and special discounts that carries the net price down about one-eighth of a cent lower.

Yesterday a reduction was made which carried granulated down to the 4 cent mark. The waiting orders were then thrown in, and the supply of that grade was soon exhausted.

When the price of granulated was marked up to 4 1/2 cents, the market opened to-day unchanged. Orders are flowing in, as buyers want to take advantage of the reduction. The general idea that there will come a sharp reaction, as prices are now so low, is claimed, that refiners' profits have been practically wiped out, the difference between the quotation for 96 test centrifugal raw sugar and the price of granulated being only about 1-4 cent.

AFTER JERSEY LAWBREAKERS.

Judge Lippincott Orders the Grand Jury to Find Indictments.

Liquor-Sellers and Green Goods Men Specially Mentioned.

The Hudson County Grand Jury convened for the December Term in Jersey City to-day, and Judge Lippincott charged them, in part, as follows:

"The violation of the law because of the illegal sale of intoxicating liquors on Sundays continues. In 1887 I remember listening to an emphatic charge of the late Mr. Justice Biddle on this subject. He repeated the charge nearly every term of court while he was on the bench. After him the late Mr. Justice Knapp charged the Grand Jury to indict the offenders against these laws. Mr. Justice Waria, each term, also charged the Grand Jury to indict. I have done so each term for the last two years.

"In every instance the charge has been direct and emphatic as to the duty of the Grand Jury. The Grand Jury has as regularly refused to indict well-known perpetrators of the offense of selling intoxicating liquors on Sunday. I think it is time that the county have signally failed in the County in their attempt to enforce the law, and it is because the Sheriff cannot find Grand Jurors who will indict on the evidence presented or obtainable, so long it is because public sentiment is adverse to the enforcement of this law.

"The Court is fully aware of the situation and the use which both political parties make of it. The duty of the Court is plain, and that duty is to do its utmost to enforce the law which remains on the statute book; but it cannot go further than to earnestly invoke you to indict the offenders and save the State the indignity of preserving laws which are placed in the hands of the Grand Jury to be enforced or not enforced.

"I must draw your attention to the continuance of the lottery business in this county. The courts have imposed the severest penalties. Grand Jurors have indicted and one much to abate this grievous and demoralizing business, but there is still more to be done. Very few of the leaders engaged in the lottery business have been brought to justice. It is to be hoped that some of these high in official social life engaged in fostering and encouraging the continuation
